A Katie Cardew Commission

Katie Cardew commissions are something to cherish forever. They are a snapshot in time; a memory of a home, your family or a wedding day. Katie started taking commissions in 2013 and almost a decade later, she still absolutely adores illustrating commissions; the smiles they bring to people is simply soul warming. She takes only a handful a year, which makes them particularly special.

Katie works from photographs; with many commissions under her belt, Katie is exceptionally good at bringing out the character in a building and capturing the personality of the people she draws.

To complete your commission, all Katie requires are high resolution photos of your chosen building and figures. Katie's lovely framer Sally will then frame the commission in a handmade oak frame.

PHOTOGRAPHY

- Katie requires one or two clear, high resolution photos of the building, showing the entire facade, from the tops of chimneys to any shrubbery/pots etc around the base. Please no screen grabs.
- Please send the images via We-Transfer as emails often reduce the file size (just type We Transfer into Google if you are unsure, it's very easy to use).
- If you are including people, Katie needs one clear photo of the family group, preferably including the animals. The people need to be wearing the clothing and in the pose they would like to be drawn in.
- If including animals in the family photo is not achievable, please email photos of the pets next to a member of the family so Katie can see their relative size.
- If the photos are not deemed to be good enough to work from, Katie has the right to cancel the commission.
